

Upcoming Events

Monday, September 23, 2019

Fall 2019 Ethics-In-Film Series

“The Hours”

Monday October 7, 2019

Fall 2019 Ethics-In-Film Series

“Conspiracy”

Thursday, October 17, 2019

Borrowing, Debt, and Ethics:

a Panel Discussion on Paying for Higher Ed.

Student Center West, 466/68, 2:15-3:30.

For more information on upcoming events, please visit ethics@gsu.edu.

Jean Beer Blumenfeld
Center for Ethics

ethics@gsu.edu

Debt in College and Beyond: A Road Map For Student Financial Literacy

Wednesday, September 11, 2019
12:30-1:45PM
Student Center West, Room 466
Downtown Atlanta Campus

Kyle Brantley

Kyle currently serves as a Financial Well-Being Project Manager on the Momentum onUp team for SunTrust Bank, a purpose-driven company focused on Lighting the Way to Financial Well-Being. In this role he has helped craft and roll-out customized workplace financial wellness programs for Wholesale clients of the bank. His passion centers on helping people achieve financial confidence and he has taught thousands how to organize, grow, protect, and take control of their personal finances. Before he started his banking career, Kyle graduated magna cum laude with a double major in Finance and Religious Studies from the University of Miami.

Atia Lindley

Atia Lindley is an energetic, goal-oriented professional with over 18 years of management and leadership experience in financial aid administration. She has a reputation for delivering high quality student centric results. She began her career in Higher Education at her Alma mater, University of Central Florida, as a work study in the Financial Aid office. Since then, Atia has worked in a variety of capacities in the Higher Education industry. In a precious role at Sallie Mae Education Lending, Atia was charged with consulting schools from Orlando to The Florida Keys with Best Practices for their student financial services functions. Atia Lindley is currently the Director of the Student Financial Management Centers at Georgia State University.

Brenton Peck

Brenton Peck is a Consultant with the Financial Health Network, where he leads projects focused on improving people's financial health. He works with clients in financial services and technology on strategies related to technology evaluation, product design, and organizational growth. Brenton thrives on opportunities to engage leading institutions on the forefront of financial health, including top-tier banks and credit unions, universities, next-generation digital platforms, and national nonprofits. He is a strong advocate for clients that have developed exciting and rewarding initiatives influenced by their engagement with the Financial Health Network.

Moderator: Andrew I. Cohen

Andrew I. Cohen is Associate Professor of Philosophy and Director of the Jean Beer Blumenfeld Center for Ethics. Cohen's current research and teaching interests are in ethics with special focus on moral repair for historic injustice.

Program Sponsored by:

Jean Beer Blumenfeld Center for Ethics,
Department of Philosophy,
Georgia State University

Student Financial Services-
Georgia State University