March 22, 2022
Tuesday, 10 am
25 Park Place Conference, Room 830
Atlanta, GA 30303

Photojournalism in a World of Crisis

Dr Lauren Walsh addresses the critical role photojournalism plays and explores numerous challenges and threats that the industry faces.

Lauren Walsh is a leading expert on photojournalism. She teaches at The New School and New York University, where she is the director of the Gallatin Photojournalism Lab.

Walsh’s newest book is Through the Lens: The Pandemic and Black Lives Matter (2022). Her other books include Conversations on Conflict Photography (2019) and Shadow of Memory (2021, co-author). She has published widely in mainstream and academic journals and anthologies. In addition to her appearances on CNN and BBC, Walsh has appeared as an expert on photography in radio programs, podcasts, and documentary films.

This event is made possible by the Jean Beer Blumenfeld Center for Ethics, John William Armstrong, Jr. Endowment in Communication, and the Department of Communication at Georgia State University.

For more information about our programs, go to our websites at:

- communication.gsu.edu
- ethics.gsu.edu